Singing in church services and social institutions

Due to various reasons, some people are unable to attend any events at the Deutsches Chorfest. To make sure that the festival is really “for everybody” many ensembles choose to visit social institutions to give performances for those who otherwise couldn’t be part of the festival.

The musical accompaniment of church services has always been an integral part of the choral culture. Because of this connection it has become a beloved tradition for participating ensembles to sing at church services of the host city of the Deutsches Chorfest.
